An Introduction to Computer Networking
Philip Levis and Nick McKeown, Stanford University

Syllabus

Course Topics

This course is self-paced. You may complete the material at any speed or order that you choose. Course material is broken up into 8 units, each covering a distinct topic.

Week 1: The Internet and IP
Week 2: Transport
Week 3: Packet Switching
Week 4: Congestion Control
Week 5: Applications and NATs
Week 6: Routing
Week 7: Lower Layers
Week 8: Security

Exams

There are two exams, a midterm and a final.

Grading

Quiz questions accompanying each unit determine 30 percent of your grade. The two exams covering the remaining 70 percent. Each is exam is worth 35 percent of your final grade. An overall grade of 60 percent or above will earn you a Statement of Accomplishment.